VOLUME 7. MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, MONDAY, NOV. 20, 1916. NO. 145.

TO ASK MERCHANTS

TRADE WEEK TO BE OPEN TO ALL STORES.

ONLY ONE THING ASKED

Firms Are Requested to Provide Attractive Displays and Special Inducements.

The official board of the Commercial club will "fire the first gun" in the interests of trade week today, when the members give their sanction to the plans already formed for the event.

When the board has put its O. K. on the plans, the committees in charge of the arrangements will then solicit every merchant in Maryville, whether he is a member of the Commercial club or not, and ask him to lend his aid in making trade week a success. Thus all of the merchants will have a chance to share in the enormous volume of trade that will be brought to Maryville by the inducements of trade week.

Publicity will be given to trade week entirely by the newspapers. The merchants will not be compelled to advertise in both papers; or, for that matter, in either paper, but it is essential for the success of the proposition that those who have goods to offer present them to the public in the best manner possible. In other words, the merchant may advertise as he pleases, the fact that the affair is a Commercial club enterprise making no restrictions. The only thing asked by those in charge is that the merchants make every effort to put their goods before the public in attractive displays and by special inducements.

As for the customer, the time set for trade week, together with the inducements for trading at this particular time ought to draw people from all over the county and from the surrounding counties. Thus the buyer will have an opportunity to visit friends and relatives in Maryville while taking advantage of the fare refund and the special bargains offered by the stores.

The merchants will pledge themselves to give a rebate of so much per mile to every person who buys merchandise. Attractive cards will be printed with the names of the merchants on them. When the customer has made his purchases he hands his card to the merchant, who sets down the sum spent. When all the purchases have been made the card is taken to the Commercial club rooms, the sums on the card are totaled, and a rebate is given according to the number of miles traveled.

It is not necessary to come on the train in order to get the benefit of the refund. Any kind of conveyance will be considered, or else the person can walk. The postoffice address is taken, the number of miles from Maryville is calculated and the refund is made.

The idea of trade week will be taken up enthusiastically throughout the country, because of the time at which it is to be held, and also because of the numerous bargains that will be offered by the merchants who are going to get in on the sales of trade week.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DRAWS LARGE CROWD

MR. COOK, LECTURER, SAYS IT IS DEMONSTRABLE.

Interested Audience Hears Religion Defended and Explained by Prominent Scientist of Chicago.

A large crowd attended the lecture given yesterday afternoon at the Empire theater by George Shaw Cook, C. S. B., of Chicago, member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The lecture was interesting not only to the members of the church but also to those who observe the workings of Christian Science from a practical standpoint. Mr. Cook undertook to justify the presence of the Christian Science church among men by answering the question, "What can Christian Science do for suffering humanity?"

Mr. Cook said that in order to appreciate the answer that Christian Science makes to that question it would be well to gain some understanding of what Christian Science stands for and to know that first and last it stands for the fundamental fact that God is good, that He is Spirit, Mind, divine Principle, Life, Truth and Love.

"It also stands for a perfect spiritual universe is the creation of God," said Mr. Cook, "and for a perfect spiritual man as the likeness of God. It stands for the universal fatherhood and motherhood of God, and for the complete and perfect brotherhood of man. It stands for Christ as the spiritual idea of God and for Christ Jesus as the perfect exemplification of divine sonship. It stands for Jesus of Nazareth as the model Christian, the master Metaphysician, and the highest demonstrator of man's unity with God."

"Christian Science stands for the law of God and the government of God, and for the absolute supremacy of God's law and government. It stands for the preservation and protection and direction of men and the universe in accordance with the law of God. It stands for freedom from fear, for salvation from sin, and consequently for mankind's deliverance from disease and death. It stands for mental integrity and moral purity; for fidelity and faithfulness; for right relationship, unity of purpose, brotherly love, true charity, and real compassion. It stands for the conscious harmony which is heaven within, and for all that makes for the establishment of the kingdom of heaven, or harmony, among men."

Mr. Cook then took up the question as to whether Christian Science was demonstrable. He said:

"Through the ministry of Christian Science many thousands have been healed of disease and redeemed from sin, and some have been turned back from the very gates of death. Among these thousands there are those who have been raised from beds of unspeakable pain, those who have been rescued from depths of degradation, those who have been freed from the bondage of poverty and incompetency. It is possible that some of these people would have recovered from their sickness under other forms of treatment or without any treatment. It is probable that some of them would have been reformed by other means and that some would have become prosperous in another way, but it is a fact that the great majority were utterly hopeless and apparently helpless in their misery until Christian Science showed them a way out of it.

"How were these people healed of diseases which in many instances had baffled the most skillful physicians? They were healed by Christ, Truth, which takes away the sins and heals the sickness of the world. They were healed by reason of the knowledge that sickness is unnatural to God's man, and that therefore man need not endure it. They have found that the fear of evil is unnecessary, for the reason that every phase of evil is temporal and destructible."

Change to Old Hours.

The Presbyterians, at the regular service yesterday, decided by popular vote to change the services to the former hours. From now on Sunday school will be at 9:45 o'clock, and morning worship at 11 o'clock. The hours discarded were: Church school at 10:30 o'clock, and Sunday school at 11:30 o'clock.

BOY IS PAROLED

MYRL GORMAN GETS 4-YEAR SENTENCE TO REFORMATORY.

TO BE FREE, IF GOOD

Morning Session, First Day of Court, Taken Up With Routine Work—Label Bennett Case Tomorrow.

Myrl Gorman, the 14-year-old son of Lee Gorman of near Quitman, was given a sentence of four years in the State Reform School for Boys at Boonville by Judge W. C. Ellison in circuit court today. For good cause shown the boy was paroled upon condition of good behavior, and upon the execution of a bond of $100.

Gorman was charged with stealing a span of mules from J. D. Montgomery, and also a span of mules from James Strickler, a buggy from Floyd Brown, and a part of a set of harness from Tom Montgomery, all in the Quitman community. All of the property was returned after Gorman had been caught at Tarkio by Sheriff Wallace, and the owners pleaded for leniency and also for the parole of young Gorman.

This was the first day of the adjourned term of circuit court.

The road case of Myron W. Staples et al. vs. Joseph Maltby et al., appeal from the county court, was set for Friday of this week.

The damage case of Ida Label vs. Chester Bennett is set for trial tomorrow.

In the perfect title case of Isaac H. Crain vs. Sarah A. Shiel et al., the court found for the plaintiff.

J. K. Sawyers was appointed as a deputy sheriff for this term of court, which will probably continue this week.

The motion for a new trial in the case of Joe Kempf et al. vs. Farmers bank was overruled. An appeal was taken to the Kansas City court of appeals.

READY FOR LABOR FIGHT

Both Sides Begin Open Skirmish of What Will Be Greatest Industrial Struggle the World Has Known.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Wilson's first step toward entering the controversy of the railroads and their employees in the fight over the eight-hour law was taken this afternoon when Wilson agreed to meet the leaders of the four big railroads at 6:45 o'clock this evening.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Labor and capital began the opening skirmish today in what will probably be the greatest industrial struggle the world has known. Each side is lined up for action under the ablest leaders known. As the joint congressional committee of interstate commerce began calling witnesses in the investigation of the railroad and other public service corporations of the nation, the fight of the operative employees in support of the 8-hour law took the controlling position in the struggle.

The four big brotherhood leaders began a series of conferences today, the object of which they refused to discuss.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Hotchkin and children, Ralph and Mildred, and Miss Juno Jones spent Sunday in Hopkins with Mrs. Hotchkin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hepburn.

A SAVING SYSTEM PREPARE FOR FUTURE

FATHER OF A. NEIL SUMERVILLE WRITES OF ARMY BANK.

Devises Scheme by Which Soldiers Are Able to Put Away Part of Their Salaries in Safety.

A. Niel Somerville of Maryville, whose father is lieutenant colonel of the royal army medical corps and commanding officer of the field ambulance of England, has received an interesting account of the soldiers' saving bank scheme, which has proved so successful in England.

Lieutenant Somerville has put into execution among the soldiers with whom he comes in contact an admirable system of saving, by which means the soldiers put away a part of their earnings and thus prepare for the hard times that will eventually follow the war.

In his report to the higher authorities from Guilford camp, Sandwich, Kent, where he instructs the soldiers in Red Cross, first aid and field ambulance work, Lieutenant Somerville says:

"I observed that most of the men on pay day were receiving a much larger sum than they had been earning in civil life. This was partly due to the fact that almost all were living at their own homes and the ration allowance was paid just the same

"I preached economy to them, warning them that at the conclusion of the war they could not possibly all obtain their former situations, and that a small amount of capital would prove of the greatest service to them, in order to render them independent of the generosity and charity of others. I was satisfied that in many cases a portion of the weekly pay was being squandered.

"Accordingly in order to assist the non-commissioned officers and men of my own unit, the 21st Lowland field ambulance, to save money, I started a bank scheme in connection with the Savings bank of Glasgow, from whom I received a large bound bank book, so prepared that as many men as wished, according to their sections, could pay a weekly sum into the savings bank. This sum was entered each week in this ledger in the presence of the depositor, and at the conclusion of each month the total sum to his credit was shown. Every man was at liberty to withdraw at any time part or all of his credit balance on signing the usual receipt of the bank.

"Each member had his own bank book, but the books were kept for safety at the head office of the bank; and the intromissions each week were entered in each book by the bank officials according to the figure in the common ledger, in the hands of a sergeant, my private clerk. The various private bank books were from time to time shown to the depositors, so that they might check the amount at credit

VISIT NEW MEXICO BUYS 740 HEREFORDS

J. A. KAVANAUGH AND S. A. JONES TAKE TRIPS.

Are Guests at 12,000-Acre Ranch of George Webster, and Tour Elk Park.

J. A. Kavanaugh and S. A. Jones of Graham have just returned from a week's trip to Colfax county, New Mexico, where they bought 660 calves and 80 yearlings, all Herefords. Mr. Kavanaugh and Mr. Jones intend to feed these cattle for a year and then put them on the market.

The men had a trip that combined pleasure with business in just the right quantities. In New Mexico they were guests on the ranch of George W. Webster, who has 12,000 acres of wood and pasture land, and over this run 15,000 head of the very best breed of Hereford cows and 1,250 calves.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Kavanaugh enjoyed numerous horseback rides over this stretch of land in looking over the cattle. They spent a day in a 70-acre portion of Elk Park, owned by Mr. Webster. This park contained seventeen live elk, the property of Mr. Webster, and moreover, abounded in all kinds of game. Several small streams running through the land were well stocked with trout, making fishing "a joy forever."

Mr. Webster one day took his guests to Log Cabin Camp, a habitat on the Santa Fe trail, via Bent's fort, a place that had never been invaded by a wagon road. The inn at the camp had the following motto over the door:

"Hail, guests, we ask not what thou art;
If friend, we greet thee, hand to heart;
If stranger, such no longer be;
If foe, our love shall conquer thee."

Bent's fort, with its historic marker, was also seen by the visitors. The marker was furnished by the D. A. R. and the territory of New Mexico in 1910.

Returns From Visit.

Mrs. Nellie Airy has returned from St. Paul, Minn., where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Lona Perrin. She also visited at Des Moines with her daughter, Miss Golda Airy.

Gus King of Clyde came today to attend the cattle sale of the Nodaway County Breeders' association.

GAIN IS IMPORTANT

FALL OF MONASTIR MEANS MUCH TO ALLIED FORCES.

MENACES ENEMY'S LINE

News of Evacuation Does Not Come as Surprise—Retention Done More for Political Effect.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Nov. 20.—The decisive blow struck by the Allies when they captured Monastir is menacing the whole German-Bulgar line in southwestern Serbia. All northern Albania may have to be evacuated by the Austrians, a Saloniki dispatch today says.

A part of the Allied army begun a drive against Ochrida, thirty miles northwest of Monastir.

Takes Up New Positions.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—Troops that have evacuated Monastir have taken up new positions and another great battle is developing there.

The news of the evacuation of Monastir does not come as a surprise. The town is located at the bottom of a bowl surrounded on all sides by dominating heights. It was, therefore, extremely unfavorable as soon as the enemy forces gained a footing on the rim of the bowl, as they had done to the south, being less than five miles from the town.

Politically, of course, various considerations urged that efforts be made to retain Monastir, not only because its possession by the Entente allies would give the Serbian government a local habitation in Serbian territory and encourage Gen. Sarrail, commander of the Entente allied operations in the Balkans to press the campaign, but also for its political effect in general.

Eighth Day of Battle.

Paris, Nov. 20.—The battle of Ancre which the British precipitated along the Northern end of the Somme front swung into its eighth day today. The cavalry is being used by the British in their attacks for the first time since the Somme drive opened six months ago. The fighting is carried on in mud knee deep.

Bad Weather Hinders.

London, Nov. 20.—The general situation on the Somme front is unchanged, the war office announced, and bad weather is interfering with the operations.

Allied Attacks Repulsed.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—The strong allied attacks directed during the night from against the Bapaume defenses from two directions were repulsed, the war office announced. No incidents of importance on the eastern front occurred during the last twenty-four hours.

Still in Retreat.

Petrograd, Nov. 20.—The retreat of the Russo-Rumanian forces in the Jiuli valley on the Transylvania front is still in progress, the war office admitted today.

THE WEATHER.

Partly cloudy and probably unsettled tonight and Tuesday; colder Tuesday and tonight.

and sign as being correct.

"Those men who already had savings bank accounts were invited to bring their books, so that they might be placed along with those of the new depositors.

"From the very first the scheme proved a success, and later on, the 22nd Lowland field ambulance and the 21st Lowland mountain field ambulance followed the example of the 21st L. F. A.

"After a year's experience of the scheme the report was as follows: The deposits by the 21st Lowland field ambulance for the twelve months amounted to £615 14s.

"To this sum £152 3s 7d was added, being the amount at the credit of members already depositors in the savings bank, who transferred to the corps scheme—making a total of £767 17s 7d. The sums withdrawn from time to time amounted to £299 11s 10d, leaving a gross balance at the credit of the members of £538 5s 9d, all saved money.

"Members leaving the unit received their bank pass books. The total at credit of these was £205 10s, leaving a net balance at credit of the present members of £332 15s 9d. Of the total withdrawals the sum of £32 was invested in war loan.

"The interest given by the savings bank is at the rate of 2½ per cent. The total working expenses of the bank were liquidated by a levy of 2d per head on the members at the conclusion of one year's working."

A Betrayer

By EUNICE BLAKE

When the revolution in Russia was brewing—that revolution which resulted in the establishment of the duma, or representative assembly—two young men, friends, were coworkers in the cause of the people against the government. Peter Vronsky and Alexander Niehoff were members of the same secret propaganda, and either of them, were the fact known to the authorities, would have been arrested and sent to Siberia.

One person outside of the revolutionary circle knew of their membership. This was Sonia Nicolaevna, the betrothed of Vronsky.

One day when Vronsky, Niehoff and Sonia were together and Sonia was lamenting at the constant danger in which her lover stood Vronsky said to her, "If I am spirited away, put in a dungeon or sent to work in the mines at Kara you shall marry Alexander."

Sonia looked from her lover to Niehoff and saw the effect Vronsky's words had produced upon him. A faint color came to his face and his eye. That telltale organ, which will not lie, said that Niehoff would be only too happy to be her husband if his friend were removed.

A few months after this the blow fell upon the lovers. Peter was arrested, charged with plotting against the government, and sent to Siberia. Sonia was crushed. When a political prisoner is sent to that desolate region there is no expectation that he or she will ever return. A few have escaped, but the great bulk of them die in exile. The first thing that Sonia took an interest in after her lover's banishment was how the government had been informed of Peter's political affiliations. This matter had been taken up by the revolutionary circle, and they had probed it without finding the slightest clew. As soon as Sonia had recovered from the blow so far as to collect her faculties she resolved that she would devote the rest of her life to running down the informer.

But she did not know where to begin. Everything pertaining to the revolution, both on the side of the government and the revolutionists, was so secret that it seemed impossible to gain a foothold anywhere. There were spies in the interest of the revolutionists who were in the confidence of the government, and vice versa. The arrest of Vronsky caused the circle to suspect that there was a government spy among them, but why he should betray Vronsky and not the whole circle they could not explain.

Some months after the removal of Vronsky Niehoff said to Sonia: "Vronsky is a noble man, worthy of your love and my friendship. He could not bear the thought of your passing your life mourning for him. Do you remember what he said to you once—what you should do in case he was taken away from you?"

Sonia looked up at him. He was so intent on what he was thinking that he did not see in her expression a revelation his words had given her.

"What did he say?" she asked.

"That you should marry me."

What investigation would not produce was divined by the woman. At first she thrust the idea away from her with horror, but it was like an infection—once it had found a lodgment in her brain it multiplied. She turned her eyes from Niehoff to the floor, but made no reply. When she spoke again she turned the subject.

Sonia did not know surely any one who was a member of the circle, but she knew her lover's most intimate associates and judged they were revolutionists. One of these, Ivan Ivanovich, she sought and conveyed to him her suspicion that Alexander Niehoff had informed upon Peter Vronsky. Ivan said nothing to her of any action he might take, but he at once informed the circle of the suspicion. A shadower was put upon Niehoff, and it was not long before he was seen entering the office of a member of the secret government police.

Ivanovich informed Sonia that Niehoff was a government spy. Whether he had been so when he joined the circle, or had become so later, or had given the government information that had compelled him to pretend to be working for the czar, was not known. Sonia was asked if she would pursue the matter further. She said she would, expressing a wish that no one else be concerned in it.

Sonia threw off outwardly her grief for her lover and pretended to encourage Niehoff to carry out that lover's expressed wish. She pretended also to be a convert to the government cause. In this way she got a confession from Niehoff, who was infatuated with her, that he had done work for the police. This evidence she gave to Ivanovich, and Ivanovich transmitted it to the circle. One night at a meeting of the circle Niehoff was given the alternative of concocting a plan to bring Vronsky back from Siberia or to suffer death. He informed the government that he had discovered a plot against the czar, but Vronsky's evidence in the matter was essential. Vronsky was brought from Siberia, and on the way his guard was attacked by a body of revolutionists and their prisoner liberated. Making his way through Finland to Sweden, he sailed for America, where he was joined by Sonia and where they are living today.

The government of Russia being finally convinced that Niehoff was really a member of a revolutionary circle sent him to the mines of Kara.

THE GOOD ROADS BILL.

Authorizes Expenditure by Government of $85,000,000 In Five Years.

The good roads bill recently passed by congress and signed by President Wilson authorizes the expenditure of $85,000,000 in five years by the federal government. This marks the beginning of active co-operation between the national government and the states in highway improvements in a country wide program.

The condition attached to the expenditure of the government appropriation is that the states shall expend an amount similar to that apportioned to them for the indicated improvement.

The bill provides that in addition to the money to be spent in co-operation with the states $10,000,000 shall be provided for roads in federal forest reserves, to be spent at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for ten years.

The co-operative plan is said to have sprung from the combined energies of the American Association of State Highway Officials and the American Automobile association. The bill is an amalgamation of what was known as the Shackleford bill of the house and the Bankhead bill of the senate.

The total federal distribution for the five years among the forty-eight states is: Alabama, $1,608,000; Arizona, $1,076,250; Arkansas, $272,750; California, $2,336,250; Colorado, $1,302,000; Connecticut, $478,500; Delaware, $124,500; Florida, $840,750; Georgia, $2,079,750; Idaho, $941,250; Illinois, $3,432,000; Indiana, $2,109,000; Iowa, $2,260,500; Kansas, $2,231,250; Kentucky, $1,509,000; Louisiana, $1,019,250; Maine, $731,250; Maryland, $602,250; Massachusetts, $1,140,000; Michigan, $2,259,750; Minnesota, $2,190,750; Mississippi, $1,371,000; Missouri, $2,633,250; Montana, $1,512,750; Nebraska, $1,660,500; Nevada, $1,004,250; New Hampshire, $324,750; New Jersey, $912,000; New Mexico, $1,235,250; New York, $3,877,500; North Carolina, $1,746,000; North Dakota, $1,176,000; Ohio, $2,905,500; Oklahoma, $1,773,750; Oregon, $1,221,750; Pennsylvania, $3,585,750; Rhode Island, $180,750; South Carolina, $1,111,500; South Dakota, $1,256,250; Tennessee, $1,773,750; Texas, $4,515,750; Utah, $869,250; Vermont, $354,000; Virginia, $1,539,000; Washington, $1,098,750; West Virginia, $825,750; Wisconsin, $1,983,000; Wyoming, $956,250.

The supplement to the bill gives an additional $10,000,000, to be expended at the rate of $1,000,000 a year on roads within or adjacent to federal forest reserves, the money to be repaid ultimately out of the sale of timber and from other sources of revenue. The western states were particularly interested in this phase of the question and successfully contended that the national government should protect and develop its own property.
